

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Maurizio Ambrosini (maurizio.ambrosini@unimi.it)

Full Professor of Sociology of Migrations, Faculty of Political Sciences, Department of Social and Political Studies, University of Milan. He is the Director of the review "Mondi migranti" and of the Genoa's Sociology of Migrations Summer School, sponsored by the Italian Sociological Association. His main research interests are: migration and labour market, second generations migrants, transnational migrations, female migrants and care.

Thijs Bogers

Research assistant to Dr. Marcel Maussen. Thijs Bogers obtained his BSc in Political Science at the University of Amsterdam, his MA in the History of Political Thought and Intellectual History at University College London, and is currently reading for his MA in Modern History at the University of Amsterdam.

Morten Braender (mortenb@ps.au.dk)

Assistant professor at the Department of Political Science at Aarhus University.

Michal Buchowski (mbuch@amu.edu.pl)

Professor of Anthropology at Adam Mickiewicz University of Poznań and at European University Viadrina. His scientific interest is in postsocialist transformations and social distinctions. He published, among other, Rethinking Transformation (2001), To Understand the Other (2004 – in Polish), and co-edited Poland Beyond Communism (2001) and The Making of the Other in Central Europe (2001).

Elena Caneva (elena.caneva@unimi.it)

Post-doc fellow at the Department of social and political Studies, University of Milan. She got a PhD in Sociology at the Graduate School in Social, Economic and Political Studies, University of Milan. Her main research interests are: second generation migrants, intergenerational relations, intercultural relations, identity processes.

Katarzyna Chlewińska (kacha@amu.edu.pl)

PhD student in the Department of Ethnology and Cultural Anthropology at Adam Mickiewicz University of Poznań. She works on tolerance towards minorities, including sexual ones.

Corina Demetriou (oflamcy@logos.cy.net)

She is a freelance legal researcher specialising in racism, discrimination, immigration, asylum and sex trafficking. Since 2007 she is the national expert of the European Legal Network of Legal Experts in the non-discrimination field.

Jan Dobbernack (jan.dobbernack@bristol.ac.uk)

Research Assistant at the Research Centre for the Study of Ethnicity and Citizenship at the University of Bristol. His research interest is in the area of ethnic minority accommodation and, in particular, in the development of comparative and critical perspectives in this field.

Angéline Escafré-Dublet (angeline.escafre@sciences-po.org)

Postdoctoral fellow in the Center for International Studies and Research (CERI) in Sciences Po, Paris. She obtained a PhD in History from Sciences Po, Paris in 2008, prior to which, she was a Visiting Fellow for two years at the University of Chicago hosted at the Center for the Study of Race, Politics and Culture. From 2008 to 2010, she was a postdoctoral fellow in the research unit on International Migration and Minorities at the National Institute for Demographic Studies (INED), Paris. She was part of the EMILIE research team, a FP6 Project of the European Commission. Her research interests focus on migration and how this relates to matters of politics and culture in Europe and North America. She teaches immigration history in Sciences Po.

Jon Fox (jon.fox@bristol.ac.uk)

Lecturer in the School for Sociology, Politics and International Studies at the University of Bristol. He is also Assistant Director of the Centre for the Study of Ethnicity and Citizenship.

Blanca Garcés-Mascareñas (blanca.garces@upf.edu)

Post-doc researcher at GRITIM-Universitat Pompeu Fabra in Barcelona. Since 2010 she holds a PhD cum laude in Political Sciences from the Institute for Migration and Ethnic Studies (University of Amsterdam).

Ece Harmanyeri (ecehar@yahoo.com)

PhD Candidate in Politics at the Department of International Relations, Istanbul Bilgi University. Her research interests include Islamist movements, woman and gender from the perspective of the Islamist women in Turkey and the Middle East.

Marko Hajdinjak (marko@imir-bg.org)

Researcher at IMIR. He holds an MA degree in Nationalism Studies from Central European University, Budapest, Hungary. His research interests include nationalism and development of national identities, migrations, intercultural interactions and relations, and political participation of minorities.

Johanne Helboe Nielsen (johannehelboe@hotmail.com)

Research assistant at The Department of Political Science at Aarhus University.

Fredrik Hertzberg (fredrik.hertzberg@edu.su.se)

Lecturer at the department of education at the Stockholm University, and a PhD in Ethnology. His research interests include ethnicity and racism, social categorization, education policy, school-to-work transition and process of inclusion and exclusion.

Iseult Honohan (Iseult.Honohan@ucd.ie)

Senior Lecturer in the School of Politics and International Relations, University College Dublin. Her research interests lie in normative political theory, particularly republican theory and its application to areas including citizenship, immigration and diversity. She is a partner in the ACIT research project: Access to Citizenship and its Impact on Integration in Europe, <http://eudo-citizenship.eu/>

Anikó Horváth (anikovhorvath@yahoo.com)

PhD student in Sociology and Social Anthropology at the Central European University, Budapest, Hungary and a Research Fellow at the Centre for the Study of Ethnicity and Citizenship, University of Bristol.

Kristian Jensen (KJ@ps.au.dk)

Research assistants at The Department of Political Science at Aarhus University.

Riva Kastoryano (kastoryano@ceri-sciences-po.org)

A senior research fellow in the Center for International Studies and Research (CERI) in Sciences Po, Paris, she holds a PhD in sociology from the École des Hautes Études en Sciences Sociales (EHESS). She was at Harvard (Department of Social Studies) from 1984 to 1987 and has been teaching at Sciences Po since 1988. Her research in political sociology focuses on Europe, nationalism, identities and communities.

Ayhan Kaya (ayhan.kaya@bilgi.edu.tr)

Professor of Politics and Jean Monnet Chair of European Politics of Interculturalism at the Department of International Relations, and the Director of the European Institute, Istanbul Bilgi University. His latest book is Islam, Migration and Integration: The Age of Securitization (London: Palgrave, 2009).

Ifigeneia Kokkali (ifigeneia.kokkali@eui.eu)

Spatial planner with a PhD in Social Sciences and Humanities (focus on international migration). She is currently Adjunct Professor at the Institut Français d'Urbanisme (Université Paris-Est). During the academic year 2010-2011, she worked at the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies (European University Institute) as Research Assistant at the project ACCEPT PLURALISM. A revised version of her PhD dissertation has been recently published with Editions Universitaires Européennes (2010) under the title: Migrants albanais en Grèce. De la dissimulation identitaire à l'invisibilité territoriale.

Maya Kosseva (mkosseva@yahoo.com)

Researcher at IMIR with a PhD in History from Sofia University "St. Kliment Ohridski". Her research interests focus on minority issues, anti-discrimination policies, inter-ethnic/inter-religious interactions, identity formation, Islam and Christianity in the Balkans, "places of memory" and the creation of national mythologies.

Marcel Maussen (M.J.M.Maussen@uva.nl)

PhD in social sciences (2009, with honor) based on a study on public debates on mosque building in France and the Netherlands. Since 2008 Marcel Maussen works as an Assistant Professor at the Department of Political Science of the University of Amsterdam.

Nasar Meer (Nasar.Meer@Northumbria.ac.uk)

Senior Lecturer in Sociology at the Department of Social Sciences, Northumbria University. His research explores the relationships between minority identities and citizenship programmes. He is particularly interested in arenas of education, anti-discrimination, political participation, and public and media representation.

Tariq Modood (t.modood@bristol.ac.uk)

Professor of Sociology, Politics and Public Policy and the founding Director of the Research Centre for the Study of Ethnicity and Citizenship at the University of Bristol. He has held over 40 grants and consultancies (UK, European and US), has over 30 (co-)authored and (co-)edited books and reports and over a hundred articles or chapters in political philosophy, sociology and public policy.

Per Mouritsen (pm@ps.au.dk)

Ph.d. (EUI) is Professor of Political Theory and Citizenship Studies in the Political Science Department, Aarhus University

Nina Mühe (Muehe@euv-frankfurt-o.de)

She holds a Masters degree in Cultural Anthropology and is an Academic Associate at the European University Viadrina in Frankfurt/Oder, Germany. Nina has worked in the field of migration and Muslims for a number of years and on a variety of different related projects including as a researcher and author in the Open Society Institute's (OSI) monitoring project 'At Home in Europe', on "Alternative Voices on Integration" (Institute of Race Relations, London) as well as a trainer for the Religious Diversity Programme of Ceji, Brussels.

Alina Mungiu-Pippidi (alinamp@sar.org.ro)

President of SAR, she is Professor of Democratisation Studies at the Hertie School of Governance. She was a Visiting Scholar at Stanford, Harvard, the European University Institute, St. Antony's College of Oxford University etc. She has authored and co-authored several books and academic articles on nationalism and minority-majority relationship such as Nationalism after Communism. Lessons learned from nation and state building, (edited with I. Krastev New York and Budapest: CEU Press, 2004), Subjective Transylvania. A case study of ethnic conflict (Bucharest: Humanitas, 1998), Romania after 2000. Threats and Challenges (Ed., Bucharest: UNDP, 2002).

Tore Vincents Olsen (to.cbp@cbs.dk)

Associate professor in the Department of Political Science at Aarhus University.

Sinziana-Elena Poiana (sinzianapoiana@gmail.com)

MA in Public Policy, Decentralized Governance, at the Central European University in Budapest in 2008. She holds a BA in Sociology from the National School of Government in Romania, focusing on migration patterns and minority formation in the case of Romanian workers in Western Europe. Her main areas of expertise are good governance, public participation in decision making processes and social policy.

Hans-Ingvar Roth (hans-ingvar.roth@edu.su.se)

Professor of education at Stockholm University and has a doctorate in Ethics from Lund University. He has written extensively on multicultural education, human rights, affirmative action and minority rights. Among his publications are "The Multicultural Park", "What are Human Rights?" and "Discrimination". Roth has also worked as senior adviser at the Ministry of Justice and with human rights questions for the international organisation OSCE.

Nathalie Rougier (Nathalie.Rougier@ucd.ie)

She holds degrees in Social Psychology from the Université Blaise Pascal and the University of Ulster (PhD). She was research co-ordinator for the ITENIBA Project at University College Dublin (2004-2006) and collaborated to two projects at the KMI in Vienna (2006-2007). Her research interests lie in identity (re)definition over time and across socio-cultural contexts; inter-group and inter-cultural relations; integration and acculturation processes.

Werner Schiffauer (schiffauer@euv-frankfurt-o.de)

Professor for Comparative Social and Cultural Anthropology Europa-Universität Viadrina Frankfurt/Oder. He has worked on the transformation of rural and urban Turkey, on labour migration, the organization of diversity in European Societies and recently on Islam in Europe.

Anna Triandafyllidou (Anna.Triandafyllidou@eui.eu)

Scientific Director of the ACCEPT PLURALISM research project. She is part time Professor at the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies of the European University Institute in Florence, and Senior Fellow at the Hellenic Foundation for European and Foreign Policy (ELIAMEP), in Athens, Greece. For more information on her work please visit her personal home page: www.annatriandafyllidou.com

Nicos Trimikliniotis (nicostrim@gmail.com)

He is an interdisciplinary scholar working in the fields of sociology and law. He is Associate Professor of Law and Sociology and Director of the Centre of the Study of Migration, Inter-ethnic and Labour Relations at the University of Nicosia. He is, since 2008, senior research consultant at PRIO Cyprus Centre. He is the national expert for Cyprus of the European networks of experts on Free Movement of Workers (2008-) and Labour Law and of the Independent Network of Labour Migration and Integration Experts (LMIE-INET) for the International Organization for Migration.

Zsuzsa Vidra (vidrazsuzsa@gmail.com)

PhD from Écoles des Hautes Études en Sciences Sociales in Paris. She currently works as a research fellow of the ACCEPT PLURALISM project at the Central European University, Center for Policy Studies.

Ricard Zapata-Barrero (ricard.zapata@upf.edu)

Professor of political theory at the Department of Political and Social Sciences. His main lines of research deal with contemporary issues of liberal democracy in contexts of diversity, especially the relationship between democracy, citizenship and immigration. He is Director of the GRITIM (Interdisciplinary Research Group on Immigration) and the Master Programme on immigration management at UPF.

For more information on publications and research projects visit: dcpis.upf.edu/~ricard-zapata

Antonina Zhelyazkova (zhelyazkova@einet.bg)

She is the Chairperson of the Board of Directors of IMIR. She holds a PhD in History, Sofia University "St. Kliment Ohridski". Her research work deals with minority rights, coexistence of Christianity and Islam in Bulgaria and in the Balkans, migrations, and Ottoman history. She is a part-time lecturer on "Urgent Anthropology" at St.Kliment Ohridski University of Sofia.

